PROSSER FLY-OUT

A good time was had by one. reports, talking with briefers and Doug McMinds was the only eventually went home. person to make the trip from Jeffco, and this only because he flew into Prosser two days early. Those who waited until the day of the wine and food festival, stayed on the ground looking at weather

Doug reports that he met some nice people who flew in from Snohomish, that the wine tasting was fun, and that there are great camping facilities at the airport. He wants to go back.

President's Message

I have been talking with the JCPA directors and other members, and have received some good ideas about some changes we should make to our meetings.

The first idea is to stick to the regular meeting dates: the first Saturday of each month - no matter what. Many of us find ever-changing meeting dates to be confusing.

Second, beginning with the October meeting, I would like to hold a Hangar Flying session where members can raise topics for comment by the others. There is a wealth of flying experience in the group, and this is a way we can all benefit from that experience. If it works, we can make it a regular feature of every meeting. The session will take place at the end of the agenda, after the business discussion and the featured speaker.

Please let me know if you have any topics to kick off the first session. Send an email to pat@dhoby.com, or call me at 360 774 0764.

I received three more ideas I will discuss later. Feel free to give me your ideas when you see me at the barbecue.

Reminder, the trip to Sea-Tac TRACON and Tower will have to take place next year as they are unable to host visitors while preparing for the third runway which becomes active in October.

Ken McMillen and Rick Martinez represent the JCPA on the Port's five-year planning commission.

The problems caused by Yahoo!, first with our email distribution list in January, and most recently with access to jeffcopilots.com, were discussed. Our web master plans to switch to a company other than Yahoo! as our domain name registrar as soon as practical.

Plans were discussed for the fly-out August 9 to Prosser, the September barbecue, and the October meeting. Don Miller agreed to lead a discussion on survival at the January meeting.

Meeting adjourned at 1055.

Richard Wagner, Acting Secretary

NEXT MONTH

Bob Daley will present a history of the the Jefferson County International Airport at the meeting on October 4. Bob has been flying out of Jeffco since 1969, and has witnessed much of the development at our field. It promises to be a very enjoyable session.
